

Introducing our new CEO: Patricia Rogers

We are pleased to announce that the trustees have appointed Patricia Rogers as our new CEO, effective immediately.

Patricia brings valuable expertise and experience to the NKF and has a proven record managing charities at CEO level.

David Marshall - Chair

It is a new era for the charity and we must keep evolving in this ever-changing world. We must grasp and embrace the opportunities ahead and I and the executive are pleased that Patricia will lead us into the next chapter. We must remember that as patients we have the largest voice, and when others challenge our treatment and therapy we need to make this count. As the largest renal patient led charity together with Patricia at the helm we can once again make the power of speech heard.

Patricia Rogers – CEO

I am delighted to be joining the NKF at what is a very important time for kidney patients with the potential changes in transplantation and the hope of new drugs in the pipeline. To be part of an organisation where kidney patients have a real voice in what happens to their care and treatment is very exciting.
